SYMBOLS OF THE FEDERATION - UFOP - EXTRATERRESTRIAL CONTACT
Published 22 January 2021 by Pleiadian Knowledge, Cristina & Estella

Estel·la: Can you give us the original logo of the Federation? Or is it similar to Star Trek?
Anéeka of Temmer: The problem is that since everything is amalgamated, what they use on Earth as the Federation logo in Star Trek turns out to be the real logo, so that only gets us in trouble because it seems we only take it from science fiction.
It goes further, the existence of Saturn rings in space agencies is the Federation again.
Examples: Picture support not added, thus pictures cannot be displayed
How is it that Roscosmos has the same symbolism as Nasa? Weren't they enemies?
From above everything is controlled by the same people and it is told directly in their symbolism. The Federation of United Planets is behind all the space agencies on Earth and they are the ones that control the Cabal behind and in Secret.
Also the insistence of the Laurel wreath, which will give as far back as Rome at least.

Picture support not added, thus pictures cannot be displayed

On Earth they are insisted that Extra-terrestrials do not exist. Then in the next layer they insist that if they existed, they would be incomprehensible strange beings. The truth is even stranger: there is no clear distinction of where humanity ends and the extra-terrestrial begins. Everything is together, what is there as fiction is true here.
They are sold as fiction to tell you everything but as if they were inventions. All in case people like me come out to say these same words. I know it is too much for many people to understand this. But the Federation logo is the one above. And that of its subsidiary The Council of Andromeda is present in the "A" of Star Trek also present in the China Space Agency which is completely under the control of the Federation.

Picture support not added, thus pictures cannot be displayed

The "Central Command" of the Federation is the Andromeda Council.
Estel·la: And do those three predominant stars symbolize something?
Anéeka of Temmer: The 3 main stars are the 3 creator races of the Federation: Lyrians, Andromedans and Arcturians. Behind the Milky Way, the Galaxy itself.
Estel·la: In other words, the Andromedans are the ones who "rule" the most, or the most predominant race?
Anéeka of Temmer: In theory the Andromedans are not the ones who rule, because nobody rules, but they are the ones who are at the head of all Federation councils being one of the most dominant Federation race of all, closely followed by the Arcturians in their 3 variants: Dieslientiplex, Devonians, Korendians.
Remaining the Lyrians as a very distant third place since they are a very small race today with very few inhabitants.

Picture support not added, thus pictures cannot be displayed

Cristina: How incredible, how the symbols coincide.
Anéeka of Temmer: Look at the actual logo of the space military branch of the United States:

Picture support not added, thus pictures cannot be displayed

They take on Star Trek not because they "like it" but because it's real. And it shares symbols because it is part of the Federation, it is the same.
Estel·la: I understand, thank you very much for the pictures.

Cristina: You said that the Lyrians are far in third place, is it because there are few inhabitants?
Anéeka of Temmer: It is a race that is evolving in consciousness to and to be of higher densities. It is a very ancient race. It happens like Taygeta, there are not many anymore. And they are listed as endangered, as Taygeta is too.
Cristina: Thank you Anéeka, I didn't know that the Lyrians were in danger of extinction.
Anéeka of Temmer: Doesn't this USAF TR3B ship remind you of the US Space Force?

Picture support not added, thus pictures cannot be displayed

Cristina: Yes, a lot!
Estel·la: Totally. And does the circle symbolize something? And the laurels? (I understand connection with Rome, maybe something older or the origin?)
Anéeka of Temmer: Yes, the laurels are ancient in origin, but they have more behind them. Before Rome arose in Greece, and were given to commemorate excellence and Victory, it is said that whoever has them will always be victors. It means something of great importance.
And the circle that delimits it, I have nothing on it. It may mean continuity.
Estel·la: Ok thank you. And the races that belong to the Federation, where do they carry that logo, on the ship, on a suit? I remember that you were wearing the Taygeta or Sand Clock emblem.
Anéeka of Temmer: Yes, the ships have it on the side, on the uniforms in front and on the sides of the arms. Even our Fighter ships carry the United Federation of Planets Logo on the sides. Also, the large Taygeta ships, but not this one specifically as the Tol'ka is the Queen's yacht and wears a crown instead.

Picture support not added, thus pictures cannot be displayed

The Sand Clock are on the ships on the sides as an additional emblem, and also on the flight uniforms. Which are the same on Earth, same places. Emblem of Taygeta are the Pleiades shining on a blue background with Taygeta as the star.
In our uniforms it is a very nice hologram, like a window into space.
Estel·la: Thank you very much Anéeka, it looks very beautiful!
Cristina: How nice, I love it!
Anéeka of Temmer: The image was a bit crude but that's what I was able to do at this time like that right away, I didn't have it done or ready. It looks prettier in the hologram.
Estel·la: So, your space uniforms, do they carry two or three symbols at the same time?
Anéeka of Temmer: Yes. Depending on the ship and the position or who it is. The fighter pilots are the ones who in my opinion have the most logos, and the Queen none.
Cristina: And what does the hologram look like? With depth or movement?
Anéeka of Temmer: With depth and high definition, it has no movement. But it's not like we wear a uniform every day, I haven't used it for like 2 months. We dress normal, as we have already said.